

“Hear my visions, feel my thoughts.”

Tofustaggerbush

Welcome to the musical world of Tofustaggerbush!

Tofustaggerbush started in 2003 as the first of a number of musical projects by composer and performer Peter D. Hedderley.

Peter lives in Germany, but was born in 1978 in the UK.

His musical studies took place in the UK, under the guidance and examination of the Associated Board of the Royal Schools of Music. As a classically trained pianist and passionate electronic music fan, he combines both the classical piano and keyboard with modern synthesizers, samplers and effects to create a very unique style of electronic music, primarily in the ambient, chillout, dance, trance and berlin school genres.

Having been featured on a number of radio shows (including Ecki Stieg’s cult “Grenzwellen” show on Radio Hannover) and published compilations from a number of different labels, the Tofustaggerbush project is now receiving a greater level of interest and is looking to increase the listener and fan base.

Tofustaggerbush releases are available at relatively low cost on Bandcamp (<https://tofustaggerbush.bandcamp.com>) and in all major online music streaming services and stores.

A press sampler with short previews of some of the major releases is available at Bandcamp for free download at:

Other projects by Peter D. Hedderley include “KlangDex” and “Somnum” as well as a number of solo piano releases under his own name.
